HISTORY OF THE SHERIDAN COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The "Sheridan Commercial Club" was incorporated on March 20, 1913. Record of the group exists as far back as 1895, when the Sheridan Commercial Club was originally organized with 83 members, including C. H. Grinnell and O. H. Wallop. In the early years, the group at different times called itself both the "Sheridan Commercial Club" and the "Sheridan Chamber of Commerce," but by all accounts, this was a continuing group of individual business leaders gathering to further Sheridan business relationships and growth. According to the club's constitution, membership was open to "any citizen of Sheridan County of reputable character," for a dues payment of one dollar.

In their first year, one of the topics of discussion was problems with the mail route over the mountains. By 1902, the club was drafting its bylaws and electing officers, with the clear statement that the club's objective was "to make the club thoroughly a business organization rather than a social one."

In 1904 the club took it upon itself to raise $900 to buy a site for a state hospital, Wyoming General Hospital, to be erected in Sheridan. In 1906, they arranged with Burlington Railroad to provide publicity in the form of 25,000 folders about the county of Sheridan, for distribution at the train's stopovers on the East Coast. A magazine ad sponsored by the Chamber in 1910 identified Sheridan as "Wyoming's Most Progressive Twentieth Century Metropolis."

By 1934, the Chamber also had its own downtown office, described as "one of the most up-to-date and attractive offices in the northwest."

During this decade, the organization was re-incorporated as the Sheridan Chamber of Commerce. Moving forward, the forerunner of the current Ambassadors Committee, the Round-Up Club, was started in 1956 with 16 members. The Chamber office continued downtown for 37 years, from 1934 to 1971.

In 1934 a newspaper article touted the recent accomplishments of the Chamber, which included staging a buffalo hunt for the Crow Indians that was filmed for a movie; successfully defending a 20% reduction in the freight rates of freight coming into Sheridan; instituting a program that fed 22,000 lambs in the Sheridan area; continued activities for air mail and the improvement of the airport; and securing Wyoming and South Dakota's approval to extend U.S. Highway 14 from Rapid City to Yellowstone, through Sheridan.

Then in 1971, the "Tourist Information Center" was built "on a hill overlooking the Fifth Street interchange on Interstate 90," touted as "a cultural success, a commercial success, and a financial success" and the Chamber moved into its new home. In 2014, the Chamber moved back downtown to the former Woolworth's building at 171 N. Main St., and in 2022, we moved to our current location at 54 S. Main St.

Today, the Sheridan County Chamber of Commerce continues to serve as the largest voice of business in the community. As a catalyst for business prosperity and a champion for a stronger community, we currently represent more than 850 business members and over 10,000 area employees.
